

Ansur Geography – redo

Ansur will need to get powerful redo to its geography, because current map does not reflect character of the island and was drawn from very loose ideas about it, to get overall shape.

Locations will reflect mostly names and relations in specific places, or if the place should be relocated.

Areas on the other hand will have informations on how to change their appearance or what will need to be adjusted to IoA.

[2] Waine*

[3] Nym

This claim idea would be added alongside supplementary terrain that would add “bump” in western side of Ansur (green dots).

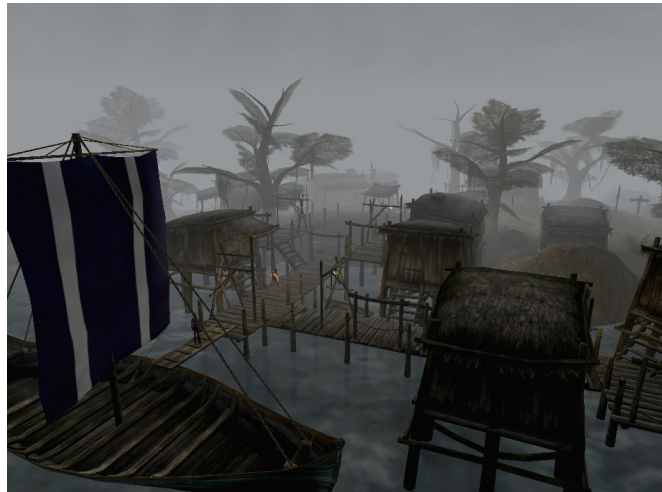

Nym (name may change, no lore basis) is very small village-like place that was built as supporting port to help nearby wineries, and also as just additional point. It is not guarded by Governor like Evros and Waine, thus it is used as a trade place for those who would like to avoid tax - which is, without surprise, irritating for Governor, but in the same time he doesn't really do anything about it.

Nym should be relatively new settlement and be at least built around 550 NE, probably even later.

It contains several buildings, mostly wooden huts in vein of Ildrim/Darvonis/Hla Oad from Tamriel Rebuilt/MW.

They are build in circle and centered around some building in center, making this place cosy. Size-wise it is exactly Ildrim/Darvonis (see image above).
