Varran Forest

Go up

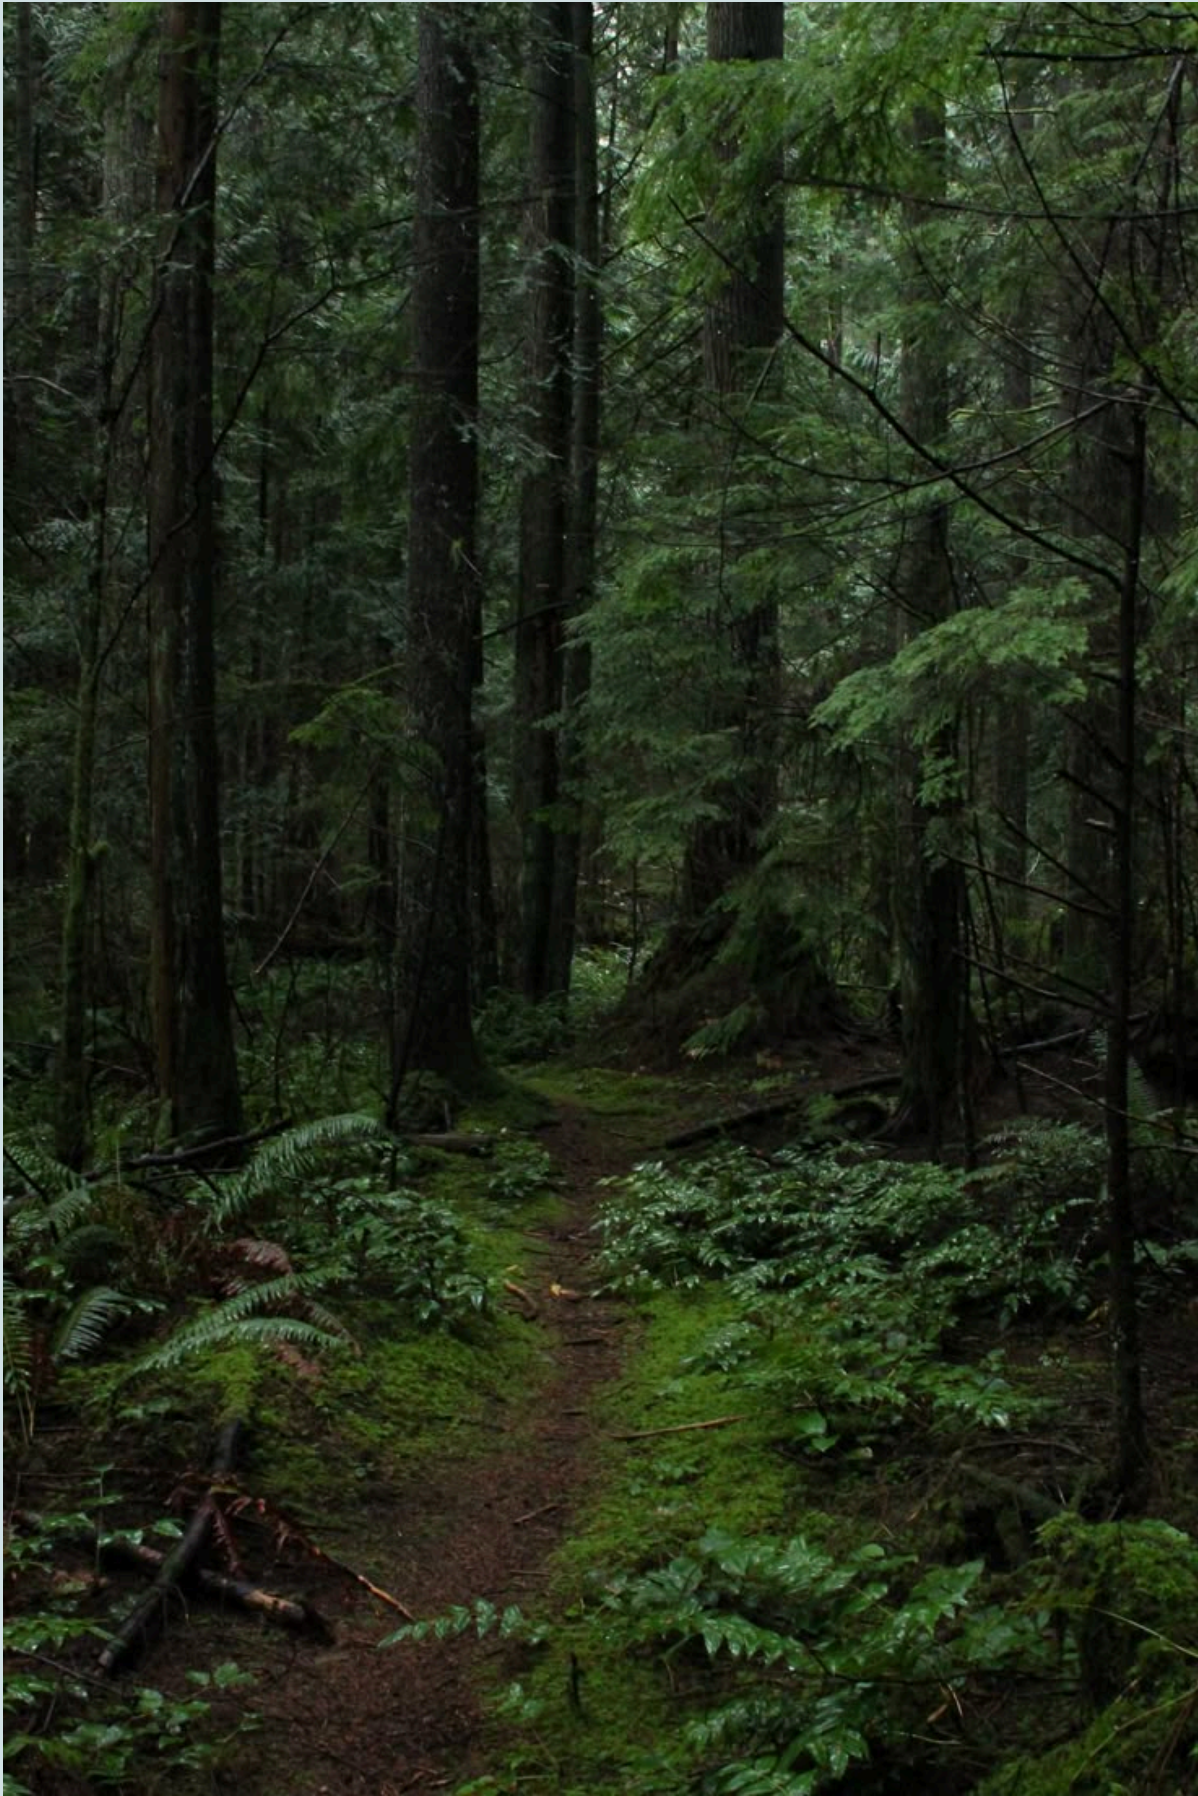

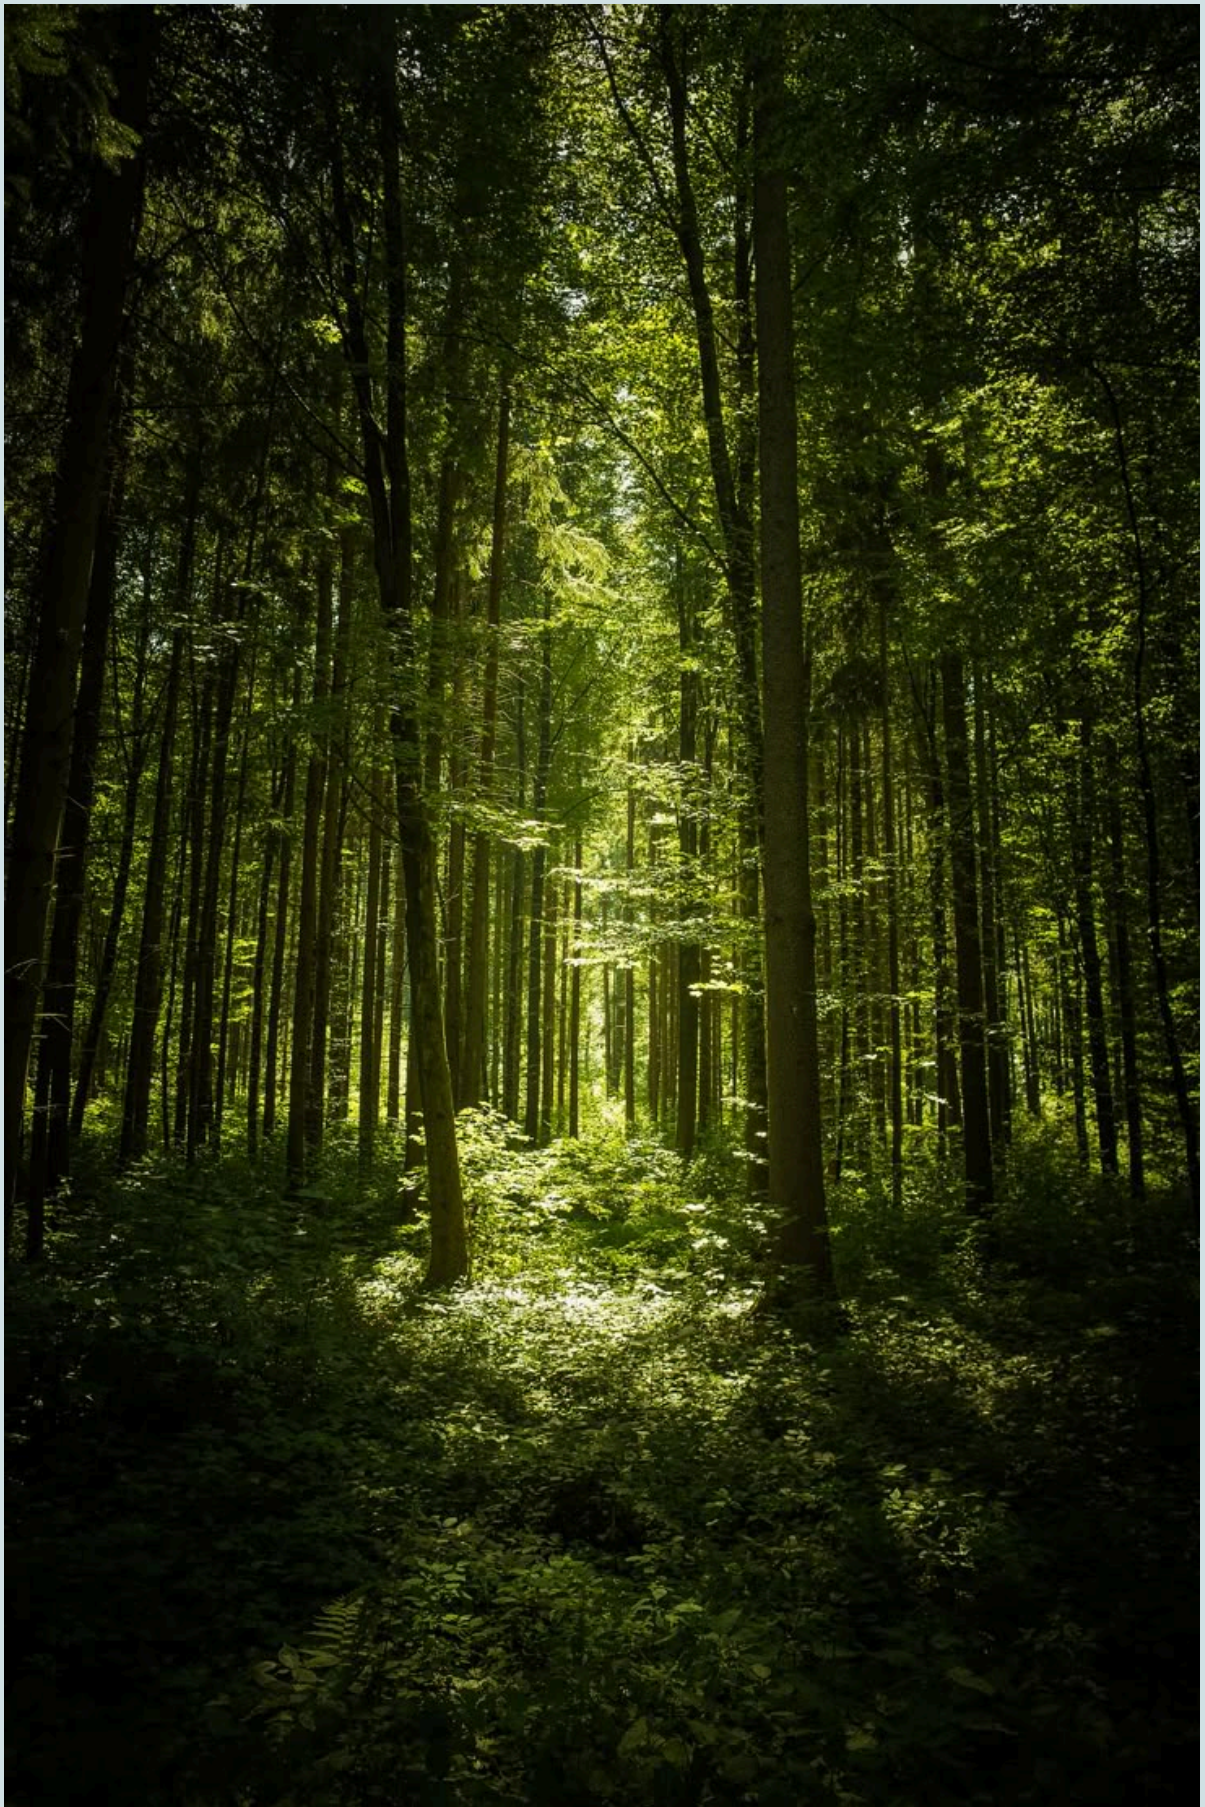

The biggest forest on Baedoor Island, covered with trees of mixed type and densely populated by flora. The terrain is hard to traverse, making it a great place to defend, and the rich amount of trees helped build an extensive lumber industry.

The area is diverse, from fairly traversable forests, rare meadows, through mossy and almost marshy areas, to soft heights that require additional work to make roads have practical use. The areas are spotted by occasional ruins of nomathian forts that fell ages ago under Old Era invasion.

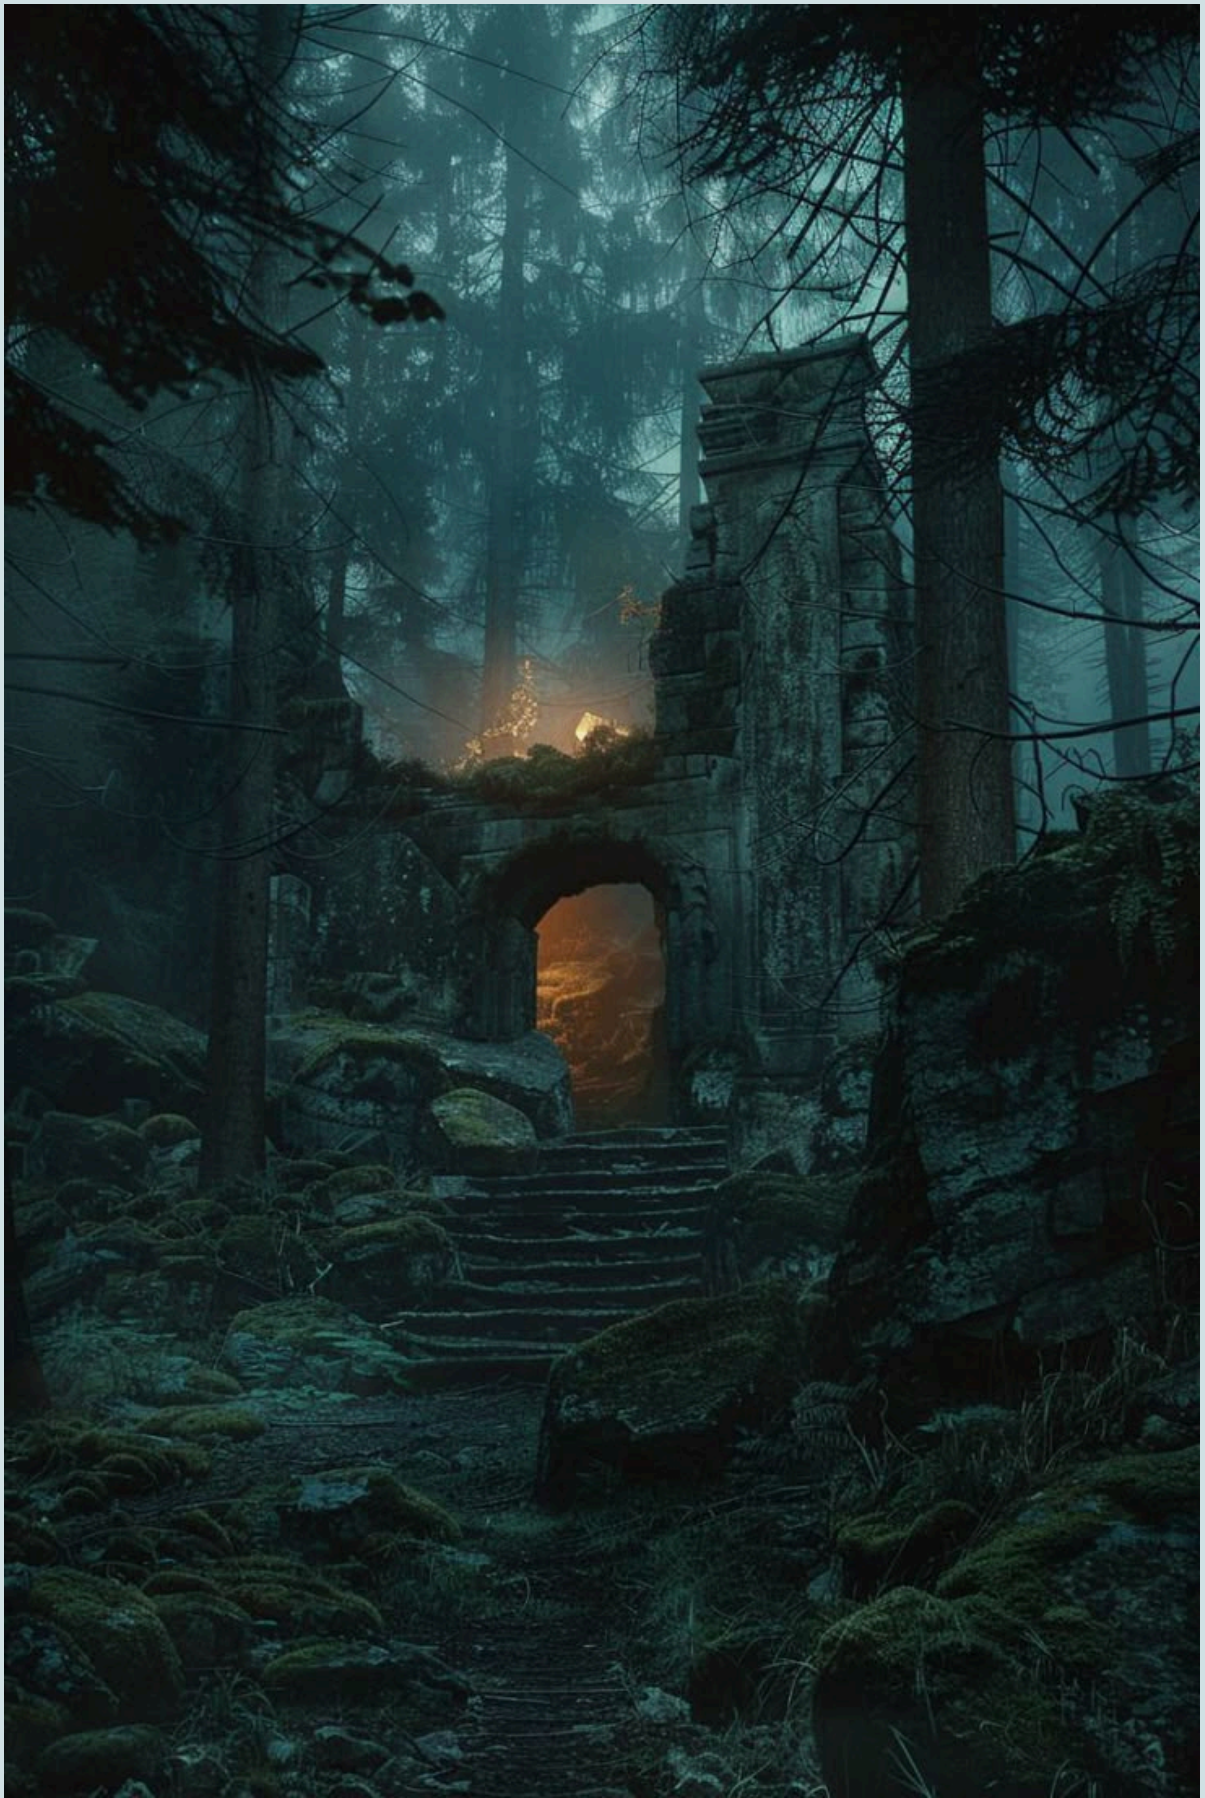

The density should be overwhelming, but equally magical at times. The green should be dominant, but have that kind of rare colourful surprises. Whatever is not maintained, should get overgrown over time.

Obviously, the closer to big settlements, the forest should get rarer due to areas being industrialised and excavated. That said, the feeling of forest encroaching should be felt.
